ABOUT ME

Design emerged in my life as a consequence of my studies in computer science. It became a passion that complemented my previous interests and at a certain point motivated a shift in my academic path towards a Diploma in Design.

Over the past few months till now, I have acquired skills and experience through attending lectures of Graphic Design and allow me to validate my passion for design in the context of developing skills.

I am a determined person who always approaches challenges with a lighthearted attitude and a solution oriented mindset. I deeply value collaboration and team work, as I believe they are the best ways to foster both collective and individual growth.
